Prologue

Joey

Dull brown eyes scanned the crowded sidewalk as the sun slowly crept into the sky. The morning chill sent shivers throughout his body and tugged his standard issued school jacket closer. He hated the cold and how it wrapped around him like a icy cocoon, not letting him go until he got to his friends.

His small group of friends consisted of Yugi, Tea, Ryou and Tristan, the first three being hikari's like him and tristan being the only yami of the group. Of course, he was hikari-less just like how the other four was.

He got to the front gates of the school in record time where his friends stood and waited.

"Hey guys." Smiled Joey as he walked over.

"Hey Joey, you're just in time!" Tea grinned.

"Just in time for...what?"

"To see the new student off course!" Tea stated happily.

"We're...getting a new student?"

"Yeah, didn't ya know? They announced it yesterday."

"Tea...I wasn't here yesterday. I was...sickâ€¦" Joey mumbled. That's when he heard a car pulling up in front of the gate. He looked over and his eyes widen as a white limo met his sight.

"Woah! Whoever this kid is, they sure have money!" Gaped Tristan. Joey had to agree with his friend, this was the first time he saw a limo on school grounds or anywhere near his apartment for that matter.

The back door swung open and a boy stepped out of the limo, shutting the door behind him. Joey couldn't help but stare, lips slightly parted.

The boy was tall and lanky with chestnut brown hair and piercing, cold blue eyes. He was dressed in the standard school uniform with hs jacket button up and wrinkle free. Joey watched as those eyes scanned through everyone before landing on him. He felt his mouth go dry as the other's lips twitched upwards slightly before walking inside the gate and too the school. It was then that Joey had two things dawned on him.

The first thing is that his heart skipped a beat as the guy's eyes locked onto him.

The second is that this guy is a yami.

Chapter 1

Joey

A pained hiss left the blonde's mouth as he woke up from the dreamless sleep. The morning rays filtered through the broken blinds and onto his face. Honey brown eyes slowly opened and squinted before the owner sat up with a wince. He carefully got up from the old, lumpy mattress and over to his hamper of clean clothes and got his school uniform out. His room was simple with a bed below the window and a desk against a wall.

Joey sucked in a breath as he carefully, painfully, pulled his t-shirt up, revealing jagged and horrendous scars all over his torso with newly formed bruises on his chest and stomach. He carefully slipped into his school uniform and grabbed his bag before carefully walking out of his room and down the steps in his two story apartment. He glanced out into the living room and once he saw that the coast was clear, ran out of the apartment like a bat out of hell.

He ran until he got to the high school, out of breath and panting for air. Once he got his breath back, he quickly went to his classroom only to stop once he sees that there was no one in there save for one person.

'_Shit.'_ He thought. '_I came in too damn early and HE'S in here!'_

Sitting in the back row was Seto Kaiba, the CEO of Kaiba corporation and the yami who came to the high school in the beginning of the year. He was currently reading a book, one that Joey didn't recognize. Blue eyes suddenly shifted and locked onto Joey, causing the blond to quickly walk over to his seat and sat down before taking out a sketchbook from his bag and opening to a new page. Joey quickly began to draw, ignoring mostly everything around him.

He started to draw two dragons, one red eyes black dragon and the other, blue eyes white dragon, circling each other in a ying yang pose. Joey sighed and leaned back as he began to color it in, thinking about all of this hikari and yami thing.

Yamis and hikaris, in some cases, are two halves of the same soul, completing one another, although this is very rare. Most of the time, the hikaris would choose who would be their yamis. The yamis were the ones who could use shadow magic- once they get of age of course- to either create or call upon duel monster spirits or to protect their hikaris. They also share a mind-link and can feel each other's emotion when neither is blocking the link.

"Wow Joey, this is really good!" Yugi's voice cut through the other's thoughts. Joey blinked and looked down at his work and saw that it was finished with his signature below it.

"Thanks Yug'." Smiled Joey before he felt eyes on him. He ignored it and carefully closed the sketchbook before leaning back in his seat. He watched as the other kids filter inside the room just before the bell rang. The teacher came in and shut the door behind her before looking at the class.
